Bouquets and Brickbats
Ross on Dry Humor
McGillivray Busy
Shadow of Election

By W. A. de Graves

Monday started off with the legislators in fighting mood and brickbats and bouquets were thrown indiscriminately during the afternoon and evening sessions. Even when the latter made their more appropriate, the floor among the "cows" was often in evidence.

Members of the government are not taking kindly to the attack of the opposition, and on Monday a minister was remonstrating with E. K. Clegg of Toronto for his attack on the government.

He took an unbecomingly without squealing and you should take notice was the warning of the opposition member when the minister rebuffed him in the corridors.

Hon. Alex. Ross undertook to give captain J. C. Brown a good "razz" during the afternoon. The minister had secured a copy of the Edmonton Bulletin and the paper which had reported the description of the minister's campaign in which ex-speaker Charles S. Plafin was cited, and which is quite evidently a case spot of the Minister of Labor.

Hon. Mr. Ross would heavily sarcastic in "dry and humor" and the description of the minister's campaign in which ex-speaker Charles S. Plafin was cited, and which is quite evidently a case spot of the Minister of Labor.

Mayor Wires Ottawa to Start Work Upon Jasper Highway

Federal Parks Administration Fully Alive to Situation, Is Report

With the British Columbia government ready to start on the last link of the Trans-Canada highway which will come through Jasper Park and along the Jasper Highway to Edmonton, and with Hon. Alex. Ross giving an assurance to members of the Legislature on Monday that Alberta will carry out the portion of the highway work between this city and the confines of Jasper Park, the Federal Parks Administration is fully alive to the situation and has constructed the park proper and connecting the Alberta with the British Columbia ends of the highway.

Members have been included in the Parks committee of the Federal government for the next fiscal year for the construction of the Fiddle Creek bridge, according to word received from Ottawa, and Mayor Hatcherford is new seeking an assurance that the work will be started immediately. Latest reports from Hon. Charles Stewart indicate that the parks administration is fully alive to the situation and has constructed the park proper and connecting the Alberta with the British Columbia ends of the highway.

rink curling in Edmonton's ninth annual bonspiel now in progress, the Harold Deeton rink of the Royal Curling Club.

Jack McIntyre's rink, which won a brilliant victory over Archie MacMurphy in the Grand Challenge Monday, this morning ran into a snag and was defeated by the J. A. Heartwell rink of Rosestovon, Sask., in the eighth of the Grand Challenge in the 9 o'clock draw at the Royal Club.

The final score, after thirteen ends of splendid curling, was 11 to 10.

The Last, Best West.

A LAND map for the year 1922, issued by the Department of the Interior, shows that the part of Alberta lying north of Red Deer there were 30,388 quarter sections of land privately owned but unoccupied; a total of 4,884,080 acres.

Conditions since have not changed materially. The bulk of this vast tract is still uncultivated, awaiting the application of labor to turn it into productive and prosperous farms.

One third of this land is within five miles of a railway. Another third is within ten miles of a railway.

This land is for sale at prices lower than productive land in a country of assured rainfall and favorable climate can be bought anywhere else in the world.

It represents 30,388 opportunities which are going begging. Opportunities which are open to men with small means, but with industry, enterprise and thrift. Opportunities to own land, to be their own employers, to maintain their families in comfort, and to achieve independence.

It is new land, scattered throughout a region that has established its claim to be the most productive on this continent; a region of running streams and grassy lakes, or forest and plain, of rich natural features, of beautiful climate, a country blessed with all the natural conditions necessary for farming in all its branches, and only sparsely settled by enterprising people drawn from all parts of America and the Old World.

The quest of the ages is the quest for cheap fertile land. Nowhere in the world is there land more fertile than that of Central Alberta, and nowhere in the world can land of productive quality be bought for so little money. This is the last, best, west. The remaining corner of the continent of great fertility and favorable climate conditions where yet has been heard only

"The first, low wash of waves where yet Shall roll a human sea."

GRIFFITHSBURG, Pa., Feb. 23.—Eddie Plank, 31, famous southpaw pitcher, who was struck with paralysis of the left side this morning, and the doctors hold out no hope for his recovery. Eddie, regarded as one of the greatest pitchers and "clearest living men in the American national game, had the American League on more than one occasion awarded him the game ball and crowned his career with a great win over Mathewson in the 1913 world series. He is remembered as a member of the Plank-Bender-Coxeter trio.

ATTACK UPON ROYAL FAMILY STIRS OTTAWA

Articles in "Liberty" Result in Banning of Magazine

Exclusive to Bulletin

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—"Liberty," a weekly illustrated magazine published in New York by the Chicago Tribune Company, has been barred from Canada by an order of the Department of Customs and Excise because of articles published recently and said to reflect on the character of the late King Edward VII, the present Prince of Wales and the late Queen Alexandra.

The exclusion will continue until the publishers swear there will be no repetition of the articles complained of, according to a statement by Hon. George H. Brown, Minister of Customs and Excise.

Edmonton newsmen were notified by Ottawa Monday that "Liberty" magazine would be barred from Canada after the current week's issue had been disposed of.

Approximately 2,600 copies of the magazine are held here by news agents weekly.

A Gain for the West.

That Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan is to become Dominion Minister of Railways will be gratifying news to people in all parts of the West, and the satisfaction will be by no means confined to Liberals. It is to be noted that the selection is in no sense one of necessity. There is no scarcity of men from the eastern provinces in the ranks of the Government upon whom the choice could appropriately have fallen, and to whom preference may well be due. If Mr. Dunning's selection is a tribute to his demonstrated ability and his standing, it is no less a recognition of the growing importance of the West and of the larger share to which this half of the Dominion is entitled in the make-up of national Government and the shaping of national policies.

A Capable Administrator.

That Mr. Dunning will "make good" few will doubt. His record as head of the Saskatchewan Government has earned for him the confidence of the people of that province in a marked degree. While Alberta and Manitoba have undergone something in the nature of political revolutions, involving the defeat of Liberal Governments and the realignment of parties, the Dunning Government has maintained its place, and its management has had to do with a strong man at the head of it. The reason that Saskatchewan did not go the way of the adjoining provinces is that the critics of the Dunning Government were unable to find the materials out of which to construct a case that could condemn the Ministry at the polls. That he was thus able to hold public opinion in his own province in times of general unrest is good evidence that Premier Dunning will administer the Department of Railways at Ottawa in a way to gain popular approval.

New Departure

It is a new departure that this portfolio should be placed in the hands of a western man. Hitherto it has been one of the eastern provinces which have been recognized as belonging to the older, more populous and more wealthy eastern provinces. It is one of the most important of all the departments of the Government, and with the Finance department for first place. From the point of view of its possible influence upon the conditions of the country the Railway department ranks first. The reason that this railway construction must precede extensive settlement and railway administration must determine largely whether the transportation service is to be the one which will encourage trade and commerce and settle it. Only to a limited extent can the Immigration department secure settlers and the Commerce department develop trade, unless the Railway department leads the way for it and provides the facilities for the other.

The New Status of the West

The transfer of the Railway department to the west gives this half of the Dominion a standing in the Government that it has never held before. The Premier now represents a western constituency. The Minister of Public Works is a British Columbia man. The Department of Agriculture is in charge of a Saskatchewan member. Alberta is represented by the Minister of the Interior, who is also an Alberta man. The Department of Immigration. With Mr. Dunning in charge of Railways, every department having to do in a vital way with western settlement and development will be directed by men who are familiar with western riding and unswerving to western values. The interests of the West are thus assured a measure of sympathetic consideration in the national councils which they have not always had in the past and which in the nature of things they could not get from a cabinet preponderantly composed of eastern representatives. Western people of all classes must share in the gratification that the problems peculiar to this part of the country are now assured of full recognition.

A Forward-Looking Policy

The appointment of Mr. Dunning undoubtedly means that a policy of railway construction is to be adopted as a means of promoting western settlement and development. No one can doubt that the railway is demanded as an outlet for the grain of Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan, will be pushed actively to completion may be assumed. The Canadian National will be the first to build. The Government's proposals for the building of branch lines to open up new territory or better accommodate districts already settled. Such policy may be the result of any serious attempt to attract settlers to the west; as the extension of western settlement is the one available way to speed up industry and trade and set the whole Dominion of Canada on the road to prosperity. Mr. Dunning could not accept responsibility for the direction of the Railway department save on the understanding that the program should be adopted by the Government for increased immigration and all the benefits which accrue from this.

Western People Should Back the Western Policy.

At the time western people cannot afford to forget that their gain will be looked upon as a loss to eastern Canada. There is in the older provinces a latent jealousy of western growth and of the enlargement of the western half of the Dominion in the national affairs. That aside, the bulk of Canada's population reside east of the great lakes,

THE HYPOCRITE

Rilas was black on Sunday, and was smug.
He drank his liquor from a hidden jug.

His lips were public but a sickly smile.
His servants thought him knowing all the while.

Rilas in meeting led a holy life.
Rilas was a holy terror to his wife.

To hear him pray on Wednesdays through his nose
You'd never dream a marriage'd foretell those.

Rilas was honest, so his parson thought
Until he found his pound four ounces short.

His brother Bill got drunk sometimes and swore,
But never turned a poor man from his door.

Bill had his faults, as everybody knew,
But Bill was kindly when the rent was due.

Rilas was a saint, but his nature sweet,
He never put a widow on the street.

Rilas may be in Heaven today, but still
I bet my money on his brother Bill.

Forty Years Ago

From the Edmonton Bulletin, Saturday, February 23, 1916.

Lamontrose, B.C., passed through town on Tuesday with the electric trolley, which they are taking to their homes.

Smith had a contract for supplying potatoes and barley to the Indian Department at points down the river.

Frank Provost received the patent for his home-made red wig, and by last mail he received the patent for his home-made red wig.

The St. William Hotel is the latest newspaper venture by G. G. Gaff, who passed through town last spring as a lieutenant in the Winnipeg Light Infantry and also as a correspondent of the Winnipeg Times.

W. Macdonald received by last mail from the Militia Department the order for his full rate for his services as scout last spring. Count out for the day.

Chief Parker Hardisty left for Winnipeg on Thursday to attend the trade council of the M.H.C. He was accompanied by Mr. Shaw and Master Percy Hardisty.

A number of sick loads of wool arrived at Fraser's mill this week from the Battle River settlement. Some of the samples were exceptionally good.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE JEWS AND JESUS

MANY of the Jews are criticizing Rabbi Wise because he recently referred to Jesus as a great old leader and a good and wise man. They viewed in this act a gesture of disloyalty, as though a member of one party had been dallying with the enemy.

It shows that the most of us religion is a war because there is no doubt that Jesus was a good man and that his doctrine are on the whole the wisest that have ever been.

Whether the body of Christian people have fully comprehended these teachings or not is another question.

Christians themselves are often the first to admit that they are far from keeping the principles of their Founder.

Instead of being an act of disloyalty we should look upon the statement of Rabbi Wise as a proof of one of the principles of the religion.

There is no doubt that Jesus was a good man and that his doctrine are on the whole the wisest that have ever been.

BLUE-WHITE EYE PEOPLE

Mr. B. B. White. I have a slip of paper that came from one of the papers you write in. This paper came to me a few years ago from my sister in Alaska. In it you tell about finding, or of others finding, people with blue-white eyes.

Now I belong to the blue-white eye people. This blue-white comes from my mother's family, and from her mother's family. Now I have the blue-white eyes.

I don't know much about the broken bones of my mother and mother who were broken bones. Both my uncle and my brother had some broken bones. In my mother's family were seven children and three of us have blue-white eyes. My sister is 57 and she has had broken bones. I know of it and I don't know how many more.

My brother is 52, and he has had broken bones. I don't know how many more. I have had five children, and I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children. I have had five children.

THE PINES

The Pines grow where the wind sweeps by.

And the sun sits down through their fragrant boughs

Filling the soil with song.

The Pines grow where the storms de rage

And with snow are weighed down.

They bow their heads to the rustling gale

But their roots are deep and strong.

And some grow straight, and clean, and tall,

With a grace that is hard to define.

And their healthy joints are clear to see

As they mark the "passage of time."

But others are stunted, and crooked and rough,

Though they by the north wind are blown.

And are fed by the same "Eternal Hand"

In the same clear air and land.

And others look good with a pleasing grace

That has grown up with their years.

But it comes in some, to find they are sound

While bearing the burdens of others.

Some are small and stunted and grow

As if they were afraid.

If they grow up tall and useful trees

Some one might rest in their shade.

We are like the Pines that grow on the hills

And to them some debt is due.

Are you strong, and straight, and sound as all through

What wind of a Pine are you?

SAKES SPEND FEELING POOLS GIVEN FREE ADVICE, SAYS PREMIER

Brownlee Admits Charge by Hefferman, Edmonton Member

LEADER OF GOVT IS TAKEN TO TASK

Real Co-operation Demands Fair Treatment of Cities and Towns

That while the government has nine or ten qualified lawyers on its payroll, the majority of them in the department of the attorney general, thousands of dollars annually have been spent on outside counsel during the last two years was admitted by Hon. J. E. Brownlee Monday night under a barrage of questions from J. W. Hefferman, Edmonton lawyer, who held that the lawyers being paid big salaries by the government should be arguing the various cases instead of the department engaging outside counsel.

Mr. Hefferman's accusation that the department of the attorney general was not only over-manned with lawyers but also even then the province was paying out thousands of dollars for legal advice, was met by Hon. J. E. Brownlee with a series of explanations, but the premier was finally forced to admit that the department was over-manned and that the province was paying out thousands of dollars for legal advice.

Assistance Admitted. "I have to admit that the co-operative pools should have been given more legal advice than any other company in the province," said Mr. Hefferman, and when Premier Brownlee admitted that the department was over-manned and that the province was paying out thousands of dollars for legal advice, he was met by a series of questions from J. If you don't advertise with Mr. Merchant, you pay the bills for your advertising competitor

The store that doesn't advertise pays the advertising bill for the one that does.

Every merchant in business pays for advertising, whether he uses it or not. If a competitor's advertising takes any business away from him, the profit he would have made on the lost sale is what his competitor's advertising cost him.

You have, perhaps, wondered how some stores can afford to spend such enormous sums for advertising. That is easy to fathom. The competitor, who does not advertise and whose business they take, pays for their advertising.

Say the Jones family is a customer of your store. They have $60, which they intend to spend with you. They read the advertisement of your competitor and are induced to spend their $60 with him instead of spending it with you. The store makes 20 per cent, or $12, on the sale. They deduct, we will say, the $1 advertising cost and have $11 profit left. The advertising has cost them nothing; they got back their cost and had $11 profit they would not have had only for their advertising.

Who paid for this advertising?

Did the advertiser pay? No. He got the cost back, and profit besides.

Did the purchaser pay? No. He paid only the regular price.

Then who did pay?

The store that did not advertise paid for his competitor's advertising. He not only paid for the other fellow's advertising, but he paid out of his cash drawer the profit his competitor made on the sale. The store that doesn't advertise pays the advertising bill for the one that does. He pays in loss of sales, profits, and increased costs.

The store that loses business through not advertising has such high overhead and unit sale cost that it cannot possibly sell goods as cheaply as the store that increases its sales and reduces its cost with advertising.

A scene from "The Blackbird" with Lou Chaney, appearing at the Empress theatre for the last time today.

DICKENS' TALE OF TWO CITIES TO BE RE-TOLD

Local Theatre Patrons
Thrill to the Coming of
Martin Harvey

The announcement that Sir John Martin Harvey is to appear, accompanied by Miss Neta, at the Empress theatre for the last time today, is a genuine bit of news to the local theatre-going public, inasmuch as it is the first time that the actor has appeared in this city since his last visit in 1914.

Mr. Harvey, who is now in the prime of his career, is a well-known actor, and his performance in "The Blackbird" was a triumph. He is now appearing in "The Keeper of the Bees" at the Empress theatre, and his performance in that play is also a triumph.

The play "The Keeper of the Bees" is a masterpiece of the drama, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known. It is a play that is worth seeing, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known.

BLUEBEARD'S WIVES STAR A BEAUTY

Almost a new name to the screen, although already well known to theatre-goers, is the name of Dorothy Sebastian, who is appearing in "Bluebeard's Wives" at the Empress theatre.

Miss Sebastian is a beautiful actress, and her performance in "Bluebeard's Wives" is a triumph. She is now appearing in "The Keeper of the Bees" at the Empress theatre, and her performance in that play is also a triumph.
